FAMILY BACKGROUND

In 1923, the Kautz Family began farming in the Lodi region and in 1948, John Kautz Farms was founded. In 1990, after many successful years of growing winegrapes, and several other commodities, the family completed the winery and hospitality complex located in the Sierra Foothills town of Murphys, California. In 1992, the family released the Ironstone Vineyards wine brand's inaugural wine release. Today, Ironstone Vineyards is among the ten largest family-owned wineries in California and the 4th generation of the Kautz Family is entering the family business.

VINEYARD HOLDINGS

The Kautz Family, currently ranked as one of the top ten winegrape growers in California, has over 5,000 acres of vineyards located between 50 to 590 feet above sea level in the Lodi AVA which has a Mediterranean-styled climate. The family's 110 acre estate vineyard is located between 2,300 to 2,600 feet above sea level in Murphys in the Sierra Foothills AVA. The estate vineyard benefits from the unique four-season climate.

VARIETIES PRODUCED

Chardonnay, Cabernet Sauvignon, Cabernet Franc, Malbec, Merlot, Petit Verdot, Petite Sirah, Sauvignon Blanc, Symphony, Syrah, Tempranillo, Verdelho, Viognier, and Zinfandel.
